Controlled Substances

Better Accountability and Easier Tracking of Medications

Ensure Compliance and Track All Your Controlled Substances

Suppose your agency were to be audited by the DEA. Would you be able to provide an accurate account of all your controlled substances from the time of purchase through patient delivery, including the inventory that has expired or is due for destruction? As the DEA continues to regulate more medical services, if your agency does not have a solid process in place, it is time to seriously consider one before you get on the DEA's list — a list that isn't easy to get off.

With Check It, Agencies Can:

-  Track general medications, including expiration date and lot number.
-  Easily determine which stations/units are affected when drug recalls happen.
-  Improve accountability for high-risk controlled substances, including electronic signature, PIN, and/or biometric security options.
-  Maintain thorough recordkeeping with an audit trail of every controlled substance interaction, including movement, administration, wastage and disposal.
-  Enable tracking by lot number or individual vial, independent of lockbox hardware.

Maintain Compliance

The DEA Protecting Patient Access to Emergency Medications Act (PPAEMA) outlines standards for administering, storing, and restocking controlled substances by EMS agencies. Check It helps your agency comply and accurately track all your medications, in particular your Schedule II controlled substances.

Easier Tracking

Get a snapshot overview of all your medications across all your stations at any point in time, including quantities, locations, and expiration dates. Use the mobile app to easily record counts, usage, transfers, and custody changes. Track individual medications with barcode scanning, if needed. Streamline reordering by knowing exactly what's needed, in what locations, with tracking of vendors, costs, and DEA forms.

Improved Accountability

Check It provides better insight into every phase of your controlled substances. Automate alerts for usages, transfers, and possible diversions. Enable security options, including biometric user authorization, personal identification numbers, and double e-signature. With a centralized data log for "cradle-to-grave" tracking, you can rest assured all narcotics are appropriately accounted for and managed.
